Reference: CGLS Architects

To Whom It May Concern:

Creamer-Pearce, LLC has enjoyed working with CGLS Architects for over twelve years beginning with the construction of the new Lindley Middle School project in 1999. This was a 180,000 SF facility valued at $13.8 million. Subsequent to that, we have worked together with CGLS on the Patrick Elementary School project (130,000 SF, $12 million) and the Allatoona High School project (330,000 SF, $45 million). We are currently working together on the new Adairsville Middle School project (170,000 SF, $23.6 million).

Although each of these projects used a Design-Bid-Build process, Creamer-Pearce and CGLS worked together as a team to the benefit of our clients. Each of these projects was completed on time, within budget and with very satisfied clients. We have found working with CGLS to be very easy for several reasons. The contract documents they produce are complete and clear. They communicate well and are fair and reasonable in their administration. They provide timely responses to submittal reviews, requests for information and other issues. They run jobsite meetings that are well planned and address any issues that might be pertinent to the progress of the project. Their personnel are very knowledgeable and experienced.

We are very pleased to be working with CGLS Architects at this time and look forward to building other projects with them in the future. Feel free to call if I can answer any questions that you might have.

Sincerely,
